MEURSAULT
"LE PRÉ DE MANCHE"

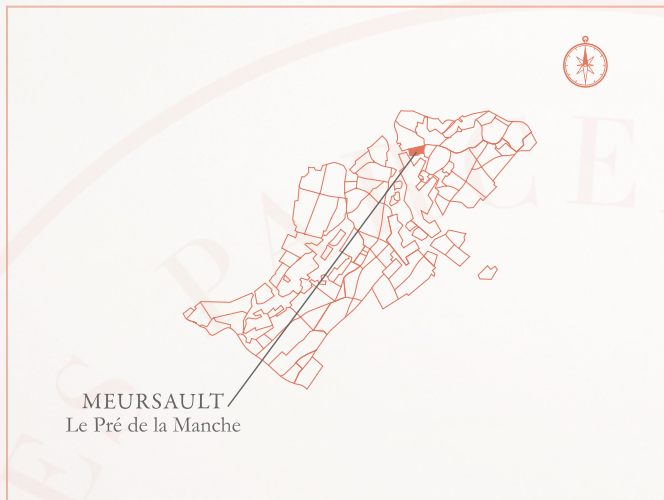

MINERAL AND GENEROUS

THIS "CLIMAT"

This « lieu-dit » in Meursault was noted in the 18th century in the Grand Atlas of the Abbey of Citeaux: "Pré de Marches" which refers to the exposed rock bars forming like steps. The top of the hillside is very mineral and the old quarries of Caillerets and Santenots are very close.

TERROIR

Facing southwest, quite high on the Meursault hillside, upstream from the "Cras" and the "Caillerets", in the part of the appellation which joins Volnay towards the north, this terroir is made up of shallow and very stony soil.
